Learn Survival and Basic Rescue Skills: Everyone can be a Lifesaver. They are everywhere in our community. They don't always wear a uniform, but they can, and do, save lives.

Survival Skills are so important – a combination of practical swimming, personal survival and basic rescue skills, as well as the ability to understand and judge dangers, is arming all with the best chance of dealing with an emergency situation.

Adult Award with Parent Caregivers endorsement – aims to develop acceptable standards of knowledge, judgment, skill and physical abilities and expertise that could prepare all for the supervision of adults/children in an aquatic environment. This award is designed for those adults who want to have basic lifesaving knowledge without having to gain previous RLSS, New Zealand awards.

Dry Rescue Award – aims to introduce land based water rescue techniques and skills. A person does not enter the water to perform a rescue. The rescuer stays dry.

Royal Life Saving Society, New Zealand has been delivering lifesaving training and survival skills in NZ for over 100 years. We are dedicated to turning everyday people into lifesavers, so as to reduce the high drowning toll we have here in New Zealand.

For further information, or, if you or your group are interested in doing any of the awards please contact :-
